WARSAW PRISON CHIEF IS ASSASSINATED

TERRORISTS IN NEW CAMPAIGN ATTACK MILITARY JAIL AND ESCAPE.

WARSAW, Sept. 28.—Terrorists to-day forced their way into the military prison, finally shot the commandant and then escaped. This attack on the prison commander is regarded as the first attempt on the part of terrorists to carry out an organized program of violence against the government. It is the first time since the revolution that terrorists have carried out such a plan in the capital city.

Says New Orleans Safe; Loss of Life in Doubt

By Boston American Special Wire.
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN—An advised that it is reported in New Orleans, St. Louis and elsewhere that New Orleans struck by tidal wave and devastated. Story without foundation. High northeast winds brought water into canals from lake and inundated several low sections. Damage insignificant. Change of wind carried water off almost immediately and only several sections lying along canals were flooded for a few hours. Several railroad washouts reported and trains delayed. No loss of life reported so far. Kindly give correction in your columns. I personally visited damaged places.

M. B. TRESEVANT, Secretary New Orleans Progressive Union.

TACTIC CHINA GOVERNOR BEFORE THE DAY ENDS

INTERVENTION NOW INEVITABLE, IS THE BELIEF AT HAVANA.

HAVANA, Sept. 28.—That Secretary Taft will declare himself provisional governor of Cuba before the day is over is generally expected. United States intervention will thus be inaugurated and the island will once more pass under the control of the Washington administration. A division of blackguards and marauders have been fully equipped and in preparation to take advantage of the situation. Captain Schaefer will command the division, which is composed of one brigade of three battalions of marines, totaling 3,025 men, commanded by Colonel Barrett, the last Cuban commander being Major King. William and McKeever, and a brigade of three battalions of blackguards, numbering 1,500 men, with twelve Civil Guard troops. Lieutenant Commander Hurdley will be in command of the division and Captain Hurdley will be in command of the marines. Congress has been called into special session, however, and the American navy has been ordered to await the action of the government. It is expected that the intervention will mark the beginning of a new era in the history of the island.

The moderate party has decided to make a final effort to persuade the authority of the Cuban government to determine if the intervention is necessary. The moderate party has decided to make a final effort to persuade the authority of the Cuban government to determine if the intervention is necessary.

Want to Give Cubans Chance.

When this division was received Secretary of War Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, the American commission have decided to await the action of the Cuban government. It is expected that the intervention will mark the beginning of a new era in the history of the island.

Alabama City Isolated by Great Storm That Wrecked Many Towns and Caused Immense Damage to Property.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 28.—One hundred and fifty miles of the Gulf Coast and scores of towns and cities along its low shores are this morning a mass of wreckage, wind-swept, storm-beaten and mercilessly pounded by the tidal waves, which left a trail of disaster the like of which has not been known in these parts for over a century. Not until some time after midnight did the fury of the hurricane break and sweep along toward Alabama, where it has now tamed down to about fifty miles an hour.

Mobile, Scranton, Daphne, Lillian and scores of smaller towns along the coast are cut off from every source of communication, and it will be many hours before the details of the disaster are known. Wild rumors of every kind are heard.

Scores, hundreds and even thousands are reported to have lost their lives from points reaching from one end of the storm centre to the other. What the grim tally is no one at present knows, but hundreds must have perished. The property loss is in the millions.

Vessels of all kinds are cast up on the shores, houses are wrecked all along the coast, while inland the railroads have been torn up in strips miles long. Houses have been overturned from the high wind, which raged with a heavy slanting rain at the rate of 88 miles an hour. At Macon, Miss., a hotel is reported to have blown over and was killed.

Apparently this city got the first taste of the storm. Of all the gulf cities it is the only one which has communication with the outside world. The property loss here is estimated at over $3,000,000. The loss of life cannot be estimated as great as the loss of property. Organization of relief and searching parties is just now impossible. Only from the damage here can it be imagined what it must have been to the other towns, what it means to the plantations and hamlets and villages and cities between here and New Orleans.

Not yet have they even grasped the enormity of their own losses. For eighteen hours this city was in the grasp of a whirling, tearing, twisting hurricane that hurled avalanches of water over the city, wrecked

Horror in Darkness.

Night came on—a scene of darkness. The rain and sleet and the water swept up from the gulf and swept across the town in torrents. Windows were crashed in. Houses were blown down and trees were uprooted. The power house itself was damaged and was shut down.

It was impossible to burn oil, and few candles were left. The city was in a state of complete darkness. The power house itself was damaged and was shut down.

CHINESE NEW YEAR AND PLAN OF SMUGGLERS

Chinamen Taken on Board Frolic Under Cover of Celebration.

WERE SHIPPED FROM N. F.

The Chinese New Year and the birthday celebrations were used to bring the plan to smuggle thirty-three Chinamen into this country on the Boston and France, for which United States customs and revenue cutters are now searching in the North Atlantic waters.

The Chinamen were taken aboard the Frolic at Provincetown, N. F., by a boat from Provincetown from St. John, N. F. Knowing that the departure of a small Chinaman from St. John would not attract attention and would probably be communicated to the United States authorities, the smugglers waited till the dawn of the Chinese New Year festival on September 21. Under the pretense of going on an outing at Whitbourne, the canoe went to Provincetown, where the Frolic was waiting.

Meanwhile the Frolic, which had been chartered from Boston for the special purpose, it is believed, was standing at Provincetown, ready for the Chinamen. The Chinamen were taken aboard and the Frolic, under the command of the captain, sailed for New Bedford.

These facts were learned today through the efforts of St. John's N. F. Boston American. The only person who was seen on the ship, besides the captain, was a Chinaman named Schell and other immigration officials that the ship was carrying.

The only part of the smuggling program that was carried out was the taking of the Chinamen. It is believed the Frolic is now in New Bedford, where, seeking a chance to slip under cover of night, for this night the immigration officials are having the most guard and the waters are patrolled.

It was reported today that vessel had slipped out from a port near Boston to take the Chinamen off the Frolic, now the latter is being

Wreck Caused by High Speed

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Excessive speed, causing the engine to overheat, it has been decided by the Board of Trade inspectors, caused the Salisbury railway disaster of July 1, in which upwards of a score of Americans on their way from Plymouth to London lost their lives.

Major Frigate, the representative of the Board of Trade in charge of the investigation, has no evidence to support the allegation that Americans or any one else were in the habit of timing the changes of steamship engines in order to encourage them to run trials at excessive speed.

The report says that this is the only cause in the fatal London wreck, the overrunning of an engine was caused by excessive speed.

Wed in Secret, Miss Belle Beach Surprises Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 28. The unexpected announcement of the marriage of Miss Belle Beach, the well-known society acquaintance, to William Charles Bain, a man unknown to the community, is the sensation here today.

The marriage ceremony was performed last Wednesday by the Rev. Stanley C. Hughes, assistant pastor of Trinity Church, at his study. Mrs. Beach and one other were the only witnesses.

It is understood that the accident is not serious.

REPORT BIG LINER ASHORE

LONDON, Sept. 27.—It is reported that the Kaiserlin August Victoria has grounded on a sand bank near Cuckhaven. No particulars have been received, but it is understood that the accident is not serious.

TAFT IS READY TO TAKE GOVERNMENT

But intervention, it being a matter of common report among them, that several American forces will back shore from the warships assembled here, even before the meeting of Congress, but this will not occur unless some violent change in the situation makes it necessary.

Rumors of Uprising.

With intervention at hand the gravest question is the attitude of Cubans toward American rule. Upon it depends whether Americans confront a long campaign, costly in lives and money, and whether the provisional government is temporary or simply a prelude to annexation. The Moderates are in an ugly mood. It is expected Secretary Taft will uphold President Taft's. If, in disappointment, they threaten to leave, the general declaration he will not leave America's occupation, but will never surrender his soul.

CAPT. GERVAIS AT NAVY YARD

Captain Vasson Gervais of the French fleet, chief master Jurien de la Graviere, accompanied by an aide, paid a formal call upon Admiral Snow, commander of the Charleston Navy Yard, today.

Admiral Snow met the French captain in his office. With him as aide was Commander John H. Shipley, acting captain of the Navy Yard.

After exchanging compliments with the French naval officer, Admiral Snow explained to Captain Gervais the various facilities for being stationed in his office and his officers such as entertainments as he would extend to them.

He explained the arrangements of the uncompleted activity at the navy yard, due to the preparations caused by the United States.

The Jurien de la Graviere will remain in this harbor perhaps a week or two days longer.

Later in the day the Captain called upon Mayor Fitzgerald and Governor Gulliver.

WE'RE PROVIDERS

Yes, we are providers of Clothing for those persons who rather pay a little every week than the whole purchase price at once. We found years ago that thousands of very desirable people would buy clothing if they could pay for it in weekly or monthly payments, and we established stores throughout the United States to cater to this class of valued patronage.

In this respect we are public benefactors, as we enable people to dress better, and in consequence give them more enjoyment and comfort in life, and we have stimulated generally the clothing business. Our host of imitators is an evidence of our success.

The SYSTEM is simple. You merely select your clothing from a large and varied assortment, and we open an account for you. It may occur to you that we take big chances. But we don't, as experience has taught us that people generally are honest. We have the LARGEST ASSORTMENT, the LOWEST PRICES and the most LIBERAL TERMS.

Suppose you step into our stores and learn more about our way of doing business. In the Ladies' Department you will find Suits and Cloaks in styles and patterns which delight the eye and become the form. Millinery, Shirts, Waists, Skirts, Shoes, etc.

Men's Department is complete in every particular. Suits, Fall and Winter Overcoats, Hats and Shoes.

In the Children's Department you will find goods and prices to please you. We are giving special attention to this department this season. EVERYTHING SOLD ON CREDIT.

Judge Gaynor Declares He Will Support Hearst

Certainly I shall support Mr. Hearst, and I advise every one to examine and ascertain what his political and economic principles are before deciding against him. It is a miserable man who will not look on both sides before making up his mind.—Statement by Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor.

placed themselves firmly in favor of Gov. John B. Stanchfield, a former Democratic candidate for Governor, and up to the time the nomination was made at Buffalo, on the morning of the election, he was a strong supporter of the ticket, and similar expressions of sentiment indicative of his position on all sides except from the Belmont-Ryan-Sherman wing of the party and their followers, who are openly avowing a purpose to work for the Republican nominee.

The Havana team started to pitch for the pitcher, and the team made all their runs in three innings. The game was a hard-fought one, and the Havana emerged victorious.

SILVER TO HAVE HIS OWN HOTEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Without consulting Tom O'Rourke, who could easily have been a valuable asset to the team, George O'Brien, the veteran referee, has decided to build a hotel in New York. The hotel is to be built on the site of the old O'Rourke Hotel, and it is to be named the O'Brien Hotel.

HOW OLD IS FAIR?

Read the Problem and Send Along the Answer

THE other day encountered a problem that is still troubling him. Among the witnesses in a case was a woman who had been called to tell of the answer which had led to a hair-splitting affair between her and her neighbors in a big tenement house.

Which of These Answers is the Right Solution?

MATHEMATICS and guesswork have figured on Jane's age. Here are a few of the solutions received this morning. Which of them is right?

ADDS 14 YEARS
THERE are 14 years between the age of every child in the family. There are 14 years between Jane and her youngest child. Jane is eight years older than her youngest child. Twenty-two and one-half years is the difference between Jane and her oldest child. This is Jane's age and Jane's little sister is 2 years older.

SEND IT ALONG
IF there is any solution. Will send solution if wanted. Jane Symonds's age is twenty-two years, eight months, separate and one-seventh days. Her youngest child is three years, two months, separate and one-seventh days. HARRY E. MANN, 62 Second street, Boston.

DOES LOOK IT?
JANE is forty-four years old. MRS. HOWE, CALDERON, No. 111 Warrington street, Boston.

GOT IT DOWN FINE
IN answer to the age of Jane points in this evening's letter I say the young lady is just 22 years, 8 months of 31 days each and 23 days of 30 days each.

PURE MATHEMATICS
JANE'S age is 25-11-10 years. BURNETT MCMENTAL, Mattapan square.

THE court and the lawyers are still figuring. See if you can make it out. If you think your answer is correct, send it to Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Why the Frenchman Makes One of the Best of husbands

By Beatrice Fairfax

IT is said that the French husband has a genius for remembering anniversaries and bestowing delicate little attentions upon the partner of his life.

If that is so, the French man has learned an invaluable lesson in their dealings with women.

I don't believe the average man has any conception of the sentiment with which women regard anniversaries.

However, she soon learns that for the man each day is not his own. He does not mean that he loves her any the less. It is simply that the sentiment has to be renewed in his busy life.

Some men even forget their wedding anniversaries.

One Sad Case
I KNOW of one little woman who had been married eight years. On the day of the anniversary she ordered an extra nice dinner served in her prettiest gown, and at 10 o'clock she might have been waiting for her husband to come home and tell her how much he loved her.

But he had been out for a long time and she was waiting in vain. She was waiting for him to come home and tell her how much he loved her.

Women are satisfied with a pitifully few attentions from their husbands that it seems too bad they should ever have to go without them.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN
By Beatrice Fairfax

WOULD BE GREAT MISTAKE
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I have a situation about twenty years. She kept company with a young man of the same age for about three months. It seemed to be a case of love at first sight and in this way she even spoke of marriage to her, but last week, received, looking pretty well, a letter from him saying that he would never marry her.

There is not any more to be said. I think you would be very foolish to marry secretly. That would not improve matters in the long run. In fact, it might only antagonize his family more.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am a student and keep company with a young man twenty-two. We are both of the same religion. I have never almost every much, going to either almost three years.

His folks are opposed to his marriage. As an American, I don't like to work about our family. I don't like to work about our family.

The sweetheart got so much more than the wife and son, but she was not worth the quarter as much.

When she looked there he went into agonies of concern, but how often does he notice the lines of weariness in the wife's face?

Every time she wore a new gown or looked unusually well he lavished all sorts of attentions upon her.

With the wife half the time his only notice of the new gown is to comment on its probable cost.

A woman can no more thrive without such loving care than a plant can without sun and water.

The women who don't get them become sour and discontented. Frenchmen realize this, and keep their wives happy by little kindnesses and attentions.

It is no uncommon thing in this country or in England to hear a man speak to his wife in a tone that he would not dare use toward his cook. The latter would probably have him arrested if he attempted it.

There is no woman on earth save his mother that a man should treat with the same chivalrous thoughtfulness as he treats his wife.

Every man who is admired and looked up to as an oracle by his wife would be a fool to neglect her.

The married man who really loves his wife will be glad to remember to oil the domestic machinery with thoughtfulness and occasional little attentions.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
For the last six months I have been paying attention to a young woman. She has given me encouragement. I must be very sure.

But of late I have been very much surprised. I have given her no encouragement. I have given her no encouragement.

Girls, Can You Ever Learn How to Keep Secrets?

NOW few people there are who know how to keep a confidence made to them. The true meaning of the word. They really have no desire to tell it to another person to whom they are not bound to tell it.

So much can be done to betray a confidence by a person dropping into hints and innuendoes without actually breaking his compact to the letter, but only in the spirit.

It is valuable point to have in your possession that you can keep a secret.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

89 AND 92 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, SEPTEMBER 28, 1906

The Nomination of William Randolph Hearst for Governor

It is a Proof that THE PLAIN PEOPLE, Without Axes to Grind or Special Privileges to Exploit, HAVE AT LAST ASSERTED THEMSELVES IN POLITICS

William Randolph Hearst, the editor of this newspaper, has been nominated as candidate for Governor by the Democratic party of the State of New York, at Buffalo, following upon his nomination by the Independence League of New York State.

At the proper time Mr. Hearst will accept formally the honor conferred upon him by his friends of the Independence League and by the Democratic party, of which he has been a hard-working member all his life.

To-day, speaking for this newspaper to this newspaper's readers, we wish to express appreciation of the confidence, the efforts, the LOYALTY shown by millions of readers all over this country.

The readers of Mr. Hearst's newspapers have long been acquainted with his character, his purposes, his policies. Almost any one of them could easily forecast the issues of this campaign. To every one of them the formal acceptance of the nomination of Mr. Hearst will be like a familiar talk from an intimate friend.

It is not necessary to assure our readers, who represent all ranks of the working, earnest citizens of this country, that Mr. Hearst, in office at Albany, as in the office of one of his newspapers, will work according to Democratic principles for the majority of the people, AND FOR THEM ONLY.

The Democrats and the Independence League have nominated a man who has absolutely no interests that are not associated with the general public welfare, and our readers KNOW that.

William Randolph Hearst is honored by the confidence and friendship of four millions of American voters who read his newspapers daily. This confidence has been expressed in tens of thousands of personal, private letters; it has been expressed at the polls in hundreds of thousands of votes.

Those that have privately expressed to Mr. Hearst their confidence in his purposes will find that his object in accepting a nomination for office is to be of use to his country, and thus to justify that confidence and to justify, as fully as his powers will allow, the kind things that have been said of him by millions of friends whom he cannot personally know.

The voters of the city of New York who were shamefully imposed upon one year ago, DEPRIVED OF THEIR VOTING RIGHT, WILL REJOICE IN THE COMING ELECTION. THEY WILL HAVE A CHANCE TO FIND OUT DEFINITELY WHETHER THE TRUSTS HAVE THE POWER AND THE DARING TO MAKE POPULAR GOVERNMENT A FARCE.

Throughout the country, among the young men that have ambition, among the older men worried and made uneasy by corporation rule, there will be a feeling of hope now.

A man whom the corporations fear and hate, whom not one of them can hope to influence, is chosen as the representative of the popular choice for a great executive office. The people are to witness and to take part in a clear, clean-cut election contest—government by the people on one side, with W. R. Hearst as the nominee, and government by the corporations on the other side, with Mr. Hughes, the distinguished corporation lawyer, as the nominee. The result is most important to the people.

FORTUNATELY, THE PEOPLE HAVE THE RESULT IN THEIR OWN HANDS. THEY WILL DECIDE IT.

The Oyster Does Not Do All the Work

There Is Some Hard Human Labor Represented in These Pearls

Mr. Elbert H. Gary, of the Steel Trust, coming back from Europe, picked out of his pocket three little white globes, soft and shiny in color, mentioned to the customs officer that they were worth $53,000—being pearls of rare perfection—and paid the duty on them.

His honesty was praised—nobody would have thought to search him as a possible smuggler.

For three other pearls Judge Gary paid $110,000—making nearly $200,000 for six little round pebbles that a squirrel could stow away in his cheek.

It is announced seriously that these valuable pearls are getting rare, and that the gentlemen who want to give to their wives necklaces costing $200,000 or $500,000 must hurry. "The pearl fisheries are nearly worked out. The oysters can't supply the demand."

It would be interesting to know whether the oysters OR THE PATIENCE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE will be "worked out" first. A pearl represents the disease of an oyster. Some little grains of sand get inside the oyster, scratches its defenceless body, and the oyster, to protect itself, begins to cover the sharp grain of sand with the pearl-like stuff that lines its shell.

The oyster is a victim of habit, and he keeps on building up the pearl long after he has forgotten why he ever started.

It is not so very different from the American people in that respect. We keep building up things, trusts, etc., in a very oyster-like fashion, but without the oyster's intelligence.

As a matter of fact, these pearls that Mr. Gary is collecting, and that other trust gentlemen are collecting, represent the work, not of oysters only, but also the work of higher beings than the oyster.

The oyster makes the pearl, BUT THE TRUST-RIDDEN AMERICAN MILLION PAYS FOR IT. He pays more in rent because the Steel Trust charges exorbitant prices for structural steel. He pays more for railroad transportation, in his freight bills he makes up for the favoritism shown to the Steel Trust and to the other trusts.

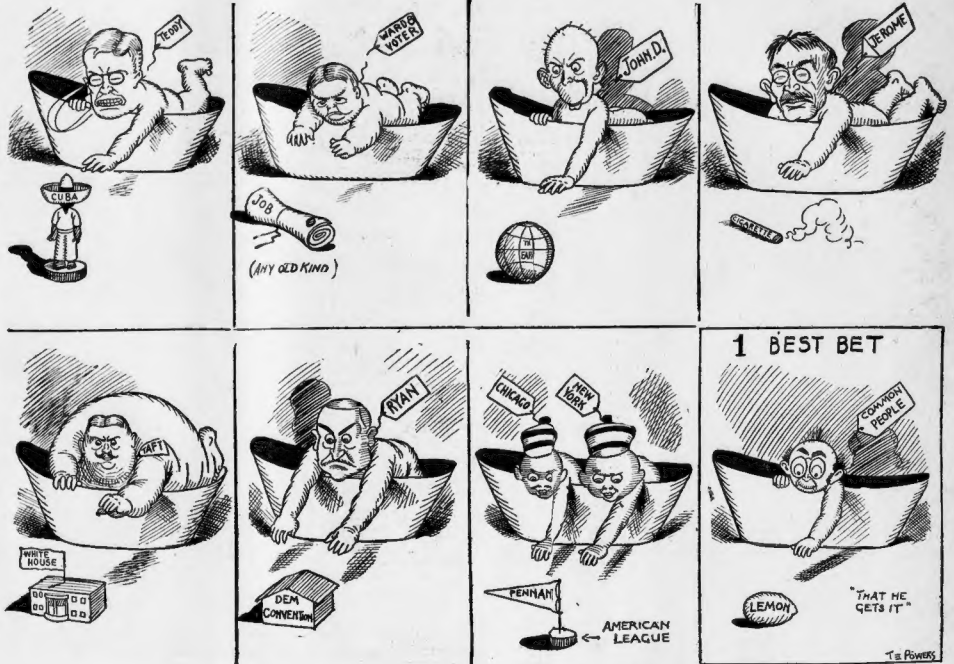

The real oyster that gives Mr. Gary his pearls is the great American voting oyster, and he really seems, like the oyster of the pearl-bed, to be even below the lobster in intelligence, for the lobster WILL protest if you impose upon him too much.

It is good fishing in the great American oyster-bed now. How soon will it be "worked out"?

Swiss Lace Workers Are Better Off Than Our Sewing Girls, in Spite of Difference in Pay
By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

Lucerne, Switzerland. The curse of labor has come through the false conditions by which the greediness of man has surrounded labor. A woman could use her eyes in American cities from 7 in the morning until 7:30 at night without encountering unnumbered miseries in a few months' time. She would lose color, vitality and vision, and she would be disgraced with eyes before she passed her teens. This would not be the result of over-work of eleven or twelve hours of labor a day—but of unnatural conditions surrounding her while she labored. These unnatural conditions do surround thousands of women in our American cities—thousands of children—tens of thousands of men. Can we wonder, when these tollers in dark coal mines, in close factories and shops, where the light and air of day do not enter (or enter only to be vitiated and polluted and snuffed by strong fumes that suffocated after an hour of close peddling? I asked several of them if they did not find the work a severe tax upon the organs of vision. Invariably the answer came, "Why, no, madam; we do not have trouble with our eyes—no pain, no weakness." From a native of Lucerne, herself skilled in fine embroidery and now a teacher of the art and a saleswoman in a shop, I learned more of this work and its results. The Swiss maidens in the country places and from the mountain villages begin to embroider and sew and do drawn work, and make lace at the early age of seven years. From that age to seventy they continue it as a vocation. In the summer months many of them are employed in the town shops, where tourists congregated. After the close of the season they return to their homes, still to pursue their art. I learned of large orders, both from Swiss merchants and other dealers. With all the continual use of the eyes on close work eye maladies are extremely rare here, and eyesight among the young most unusual. Work Is a Blessing This surprising information, which is universally corroborated, I can only explain by the fact that God's daylight hours and the outdoor air are used by the country-folk and the town. There are no stifling factory rooms, with electric lights, and no artificial forces and strain the eye muscles. It has been noted, until the time that Adam was very badly treated after the "Fall." Indeed, I have always thought his position (if one takes the allegory for literal fact) as a tiller of the soil, earning his bread by honest labor, in the land of a newly-fallen and a newly-fallen more dignified and worthy of his manhood. The position of a tiller of the soil, which he occupied before Eve's sin, was a blessed one, until he was told what work meant. It was a blessed, not a curse, which God bestowed upon him. Happy, beautiful little land!
